About Thinking Circular

The multiverse for green progress

The Circular Economy needs a competence centre, a central point of contact, a think tank, an interest group, an innovation driver, an intersection. Thinking Circular forms the multiverse for this. This is where economics, science and politics combine on extremely varied levels on the subject of sustainability and the Circular Economy.

Consulting, networking, partners, political classification, events, expert tips, influencers, speakers - all of these can be found with Thinking Circular. Here, ideas are put forth for safeguarding the future.

» Green innovations are born

Consulting

Developing and implementing projects, triggering disruption; here, companies are supported with their green development. We combine ecology and economics.
